Sexing the Body. Sexing the Body: Gender Politics and the Construction of Sexuality is a 2000 book by the biologist Anne Fausto-Sterling, in which the author explores the social construction of gender, and the social and medical treatment of intersex people. She stated that in it she sets out to "convince readers of the need for theories...Gender Politics and the Construction of Sexuality. They focus primarily on reproductive abilities (in the case of a potential girl) or penis size (in the case of a prospective boy). If a child is born with two X chromosomes, oviducts, ovaries, and a uterus on the inside, but a penis and scrotum on the outside, for instance,...Sexing the Body: Gender Politics and the Construction Of Sexuality. It will be eye opening and mind bending for the novice in either field; readers with background in either or both (especially historians of science), however, might find it methodologically unsatisfying.
