

Download The Physiological Response Of The Surgical Patient

Chapter 41: Care of the Surgical Patient Cooper and Gosnell: Foundations and Adult Health Nursing, 7th Edition MULTIPLE CHOICE 1. The patient who had a nephrectomy yesterday has not used the patient-controlled analgesia (PCA) delivery system but admits to being in pain but fearful of addiction. What is the nurse's best response? a. Modern analgesic drugs do not cause addiction. Patients undergoing surgery face many metabolic and physiological challenges that may compromise nutritional status. January 2017 essential elements for recognising & responding to acute physiological deterioration Second Edition Philosophy and Mission Statement. We believe in providing high-quality care to all patients. We believe that the facility should provide a safe, comfortable environment for patients, family members and staff in order to provide optimum care.